A MEAN spirit is being shown in some parts of the State toward the candi. dacy of Mr. J. L. Jeffries, of Culpeper, for Attorney General. As heretofore stated, Mr. Jeffries was the first to announce himself as a candidate for that position. He made an active canvass throughout the State, met with warm support, and, it is believed, has secured a majority of the delegates in his favor. Still reports come from Richmond that there has been a combination formed between several of the candidates for the nomination for the attorney general alship against the nomination of Mr. Jeffries and that it has been agreed that the street of the strength of all the other candidates shall be thrown to Mr. Anderson, if it shall be seen, even before a ballot is became inactive. taken at Norfolk, that Mr. Jeffries is at all close to having the required 736 President Madison, was sent to St Votes. The Manchester delegation met on Wednesday night and decided to "vote as a unit for any man who seemed where for several years she had lived most likely to beat Jeffries for the attorney generalship." So far as known finally found her ill and famished and for her who had been a serial for her and the only resson for this factional opposition is that Mr. Jeffries lives in the Eighth district, the district in which Capt. Willard, who will almost certainly be nominated for Lieutenant Governor, also lives. This should not be urged against a man in every way fitted for the position and israpuguant to the feelings of all fair minded men. Such undemocratic opposition is likely to, and should, do Mr. Jefries more good than

IT IS said in political circles in Richmond that a determined fight will be made at the Norfolk State democratic convention to have incorporated in the platform a clause declaring for the principle embodied in the employers' liability bill. It is to be hoped that no such effort will be made. Such matters have no place in party platforms and are apt to act as boomerangs. Honest men now have all the laws necessary for their protection if they are injured to the belief is expressed that the rewhile in the employ of corporations or ports of fighting on the isthmus and in individuals, and the highest courts in other parts of Colombia have been the State have decided that the measure referred to is unjust and unconstitutional. They were bound not to strike for a year, but in spite of this they all quit work and left the coasting steamers helpless. Other vessels will be rendered equally helpless when they arrive, as the firemen on them will strike also. That such action on the part of the marine firemen shows conclusively that a contract with union labor is of no value, is the expressed opinlou of the steamship people.
